The Nutcracker

Going to see THE NUTCRACKER

On Wednesday, December 17th I am going to the Schuster Center to see a ballet. A ballet tells a story through dancing. I am going to see THE NUTCRACKER ballet. If I have seen it before this one will look different. It is special and exciting that the sets, costumes and dancing will be new.

The Schuster Center is a place in downtown Dayton where people can go to see different shows. THE NUTCRACKER is based on a story called “The Nutcracker and the Mouse King” written by E.T.A. Hoffman. The music is composed by Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky.

Dancers, who are people dressed up in costumes, will tell the story of THE NUTCRACKER on the stage. The dancers will tell the story by dancing, which is moving their bodies to music.

I will get to watch the dancers on stage and listen to the music that plays as they dance. I will listen to the music and watch the dancers to understand the story since the dancers do not speak during the performance. I can read “The Nutcracker and the Mouse King,” read the sequence of events, or listen to the music, so I know what to expect when I go to the Schuster Center.

Getting to the Schuster Center

The show will start at 2:30 p.m. in the afternoon. I can ride to the Schuster Center with my group/family. We can get dropped off in front of the building, we can park on the street, or we can park in the Arts Garage and then walk across the street to the theatre. My parents/group can tell me what we plan to do.

In the Lobby

When we get to the Schuster Center, we will go inside the building. The lobby is the room you pass through to get into the theatre. Inside the lobby, we will see ushers. Ushers are people who volunteer at the theatre. They will be wearing special nametags that hang around their necks. Then, the ushers will greet us and will scan our tickets. They can also help answer questions and show us where to go. I can say “hi” or “good afternoon” to the ushers.

Inside the lobby, we will also see other people who are coming to see THE NUTCRACKER. Because there may be a lot of people in the lobby, it is important for me to stay close to my parents/group, so I feel safe. It is also important for me to listen to instructions and to wait my turn. Because the Schuster Center is a very large building, noise may echo and sound loud. If it is too loud, I may want to wear headphones or cover my ears while I wait. If I forget my headphones, there will be some at the Schuster Center that I can borrow.

The show begins at approximately 2:30 pm in the afternoon. The doors to the theatre will open around 2:00 pm, so if I am early, I will have to wait inside the lobby before going into the theatre. While I wait, I can look around the lobby which will be decorated for the holidays. I can also go to the restroom, eat a snack from home, or play with the things I brought from home.

Holiday Decorations

Because I am coming to the Schuster Center during the holidays, the lobby will be decorated with lots of holiday decorations. Some of these decorations will be bright and may twinkle. They may also play music or make noise. I can always go to the Quiet Area or cover my ears or eyes if it becomes too loud or too bright. Some of the things I may see in the lobby are the Rike's holiday window displays.

Restrooms

If I need to use the restroom both a Men's and Women's restroom are located on both sides of the lobby. There is also a Family restroom located on the left side of the lobby. There are also Family restrooms on the 2nd and 3rd Floors. If I have to go to the 2nd or the 3rd floor, I will have to ask for help from an usher to use the elevator or the stairs. If I need help locating the Family restrooms, I can ask an usher to help me.

All of the restrooms are automatic flush and have paper towels that I can use to dry my hands. If people have to use the restroom, I may have to wait in line. I will try to be patient and wait my turn.

Food and Drinks

I am allowed to bring snacks and drinks inside the theatre, so if I would like to pack a snack or a drink from home, I may eat it in the theatre or in the lobby. There are also water fountains located on both sides of the lobby that I can use to get a drink of water. They will not be selling snacks or drinks at this performance.

Quiet Areas

For this performance, there will be 2 quiet areas that are available for me if I need to take a break, or if I would like to go to a quiet space with fewer people. I can tell my parents/group that I need to take a break, and we can go to this area. One Quiet Area will be on the left side of the lobby in the Mathile Theatre, the other will be on the right side of the lobby near the grand staircase. There will be a sign that says, "Quiet Area." I can go to the Quiet Area before, during, or after the show if I need a quiet space. There will be headphones and fidgets in the Quiet Area if I need them.

Entering the Theatre

When it is time to go into the theatre, I will enter with my family/group.

Before I enter, an usher will give me a program that tells me more about THE NUTCRACKER. While I wait for the ballet to begin, I can look at my program to learn more about the dancers and the show.

When I go inside the theatre I will see lots of seats. Each seat has a letter and a number. The seats face the stage.

The people who sit in the seats to watch the play are called the audience. This show is Reserved Seating, which means that I will have an assigned seat in which to sit. If I need help finding my seat, ushers will be available inside the theatre to help me. If I think I am going to need help seeing the stage, I can bring a booster seat from home.

When I come in the theatre, I will also see the stage. The stage is where the dancers perform. I will stay off the stage and sit down with the audience. It is important to sit in my seat or on my booster seat during the show so that people sitting behind me can see the stage. On the stage, I will see a giant clock and images of a nutcracker and a dancer. The stage will change during the show and curtains and backdrops will move up and down or to the sides where I can't see them.

In the back of the theatre, I may also notice some people standing or sitting at sound and light boards with lots of cords and wires. These people are technicians. Technicians operate the light and sound boards during the ballet. Because they are working, I will not enter the area in which they are working.

Watching THE NUTCRACKER

When it is time for the show to begin, there will be a short announcement about what to do in the event of an emergency and the lights will get a little darker, but they won't turn off. They will stay at 50 percent brightness during the show. Someone will come on stage for a curtain speech where they will talk and introduce THE NUTCRACKER. The clock, nutcracker, dancer image will rise out of view, the stage lights will come up on the stage, and the dancers will enter.

The dancers will be wearing different costumes to help tell the story. They may be wearing masks, hats, wigs, and makeup. They may be carrying drums, cymbals and swords. They are pretending.

During the show, the dancers will be coming on and off the stage, sometimes they move quickly and sometimes they walk on. Lights will be used to make it look like daytime or nighttime. Sometimes a light might be focused on a specific actor or part of the set. If I follow the light with my eyes, it will help me look at important things. Some lights will make it look like it is snowing!

During the ballet, people will clap when a dancer does a cool movement or when a dancer finishes a dance. I can clap if I like what the dancer is doing. People clap for a short time. I will also hear music and special sounds that will help tell the story. I might hear rattles, cymbals, and drums. I can cover my ears or wear headphones if the clapping noise or music is too loud.

The scenes will change and grow during the performance, some dancers even appear and disappear through a suitcase on a table. This is all a part of the acting and pretending to tell the story. If I need a break during the show, I can tell my parent/group, and they can walk me out of the theatre. Since this is a special performance, it is okay to get up and take a break during the show. If I take a break, I can walk around in the lobby. I can also visit the restroom. If I need some quiet time, I can walk to the Quiet Area. I can come back into the theatre and watch the rest of the show when I am ready.

During the battle scene with the mice and the nutcracker soldiers there may be popping and drumming noises. They are pretending to fight and pretend to get hurt, but everyone is safe since they are acting. If the sounds are too loud, I can cover my ears or wear headphones. There will also be a lot of soldiers and mice onstage. They are wearing costumes. These are drawings of what the costumes will look like and some of these are pictures of the costumes being made.

The Rat King will have a crown and a sword and will fight with the soldiers onstage. I might not like how he looks. I can cover my eyes if I do not want to see him.

In the middle of the show, there will be a 20-minute Intermission when I can take a break.

The first act will last approximately 50 minutes. The intermission will last 20 minutes. The second act will last approximately 45 minutes.

There are many different scenes in the show. I can learn more about these scenes and characters in the Sequence of Events and Character Guide. These are what the backgrounds will look like during the show, the scenes will go up or down when they are changed.

At the end of the show, the grand curtain will close and then go back up. All of the performers will come back on stage to take a bow. I can clap at the end of the ballet to show my appreciation for the experience and for the hard work of the performers and technicians. Then, the lights will come back on in the theatre. This means that the show is over.

I will look around my seat and make sure that I pick up all my things before I leave. I will walk to the aisle and wait for my family/group to walk out of the theatre together. A lot of people will be leaving the theatre at the same time, so I will try to be patient while I wait my turn to walk up the aisle and into the lobby. I can stop in the restroom if I need to on my way out of the theatre. I will walk with my group/family through the lobby and to our bus or car.
